

EJI Excellence in Medicine Guidelines for Excellence in Medicine Scholarship Nominations 2024

Overview

The mission of EJI Excellence in Medicine is to encourage and recognize excellence in all aspects of medical care and healthcare for the citizens of New Jersey, including patient care, teaching, education, research, management, leadership, and civic engagement.

The EJI Excellence in Medicine Awards[™] have been given annually since 1939, honoring those extraordinary New Jersey physicians, and leaders in healthcare and healthcare delivery, whose dedication and commitment have enhanced medical care and healthcare in our state and in the nation.

Scholarship Awards

Just as we promote excellence by encouraging and recognizing it in those with established careers, we hope to promote future excellence by providing scholarships to New Jersey residents who are medical, dental, pharmacy, and physician assistant students in New Jersey schools. The students selected will have demonstrated excellence during their school careers in any of several ways, including but not limited to scholarship, research, leadership, civic engagement, and public service; and indicated their intent to practice in New Jersey.

Nomination Package

The Scholarship Committee will select scholarship recipients based upon their unique attributes, areas of excellence and potential as a healthcare provider, scientist, educator or leader. Among the factors considered are academic performance (an equal but not primary criterion); basic and clinical research; publication, especially in a peer-reviewed journal; presentations at professional conferences, seminars, and meetings; significant participation and leadership in programs and activities within their institution and in the community at large; and civic engagement, especially in healthcare-related programs.

The nomination must include all the following materials in order for the nominee to be considered for an award:

1. Completion of the online application.
2. The student's curriculum vitae (CV)
3. A comprehensive description of the student's leadership, civic engagement, extracurricular activities, awards and honors, and research publications and presentations during the medical, dental, pharmacy or physician assistant program. These details should present a picture of the student's interests and strengths, rather than submitting a list of activities.
4. Submit an essay of no more than 750 words, on one of the suggested topics below. Your essay should help the Scholarship Committee to understand more about you than your academic performance, and should reflect your interests, activities, and accomplishments while in your professional school.
 - Discuss ways in which you contributed to an environment of humanism, health equity and social justice while in your professional school.
 - Discuss a meaningful experience you have had during your medical/healthcare education and how it impacted you.
 - Discuss a professional challenge and how you resolved it.
 - Discuss a community service project or activity that you have been involved in and how it has shaped your career goals.
 - Discuss a research project or publication that you have been meaningfully involved with and how it has shaped your interest in a particular field or topic.
 - Discuss a leadership role that you played in a school organization and the impact that it had on your school or the community.
5. A nomination letter prepared by a full-time faculty member. The faculty recommendation letter is the single most important element of the nomination package and should make clear why this is an exceptional and extraordinary student. It should provide personal and professional insights into the student with specific examples and details. The letter should be submitted on official letterhead, must include the title and signature of the faculty member, and should not exceed two typewritten pages in length.

Eligibility Requirements

Nominees should be residents of New Jersey who are currently pursuing a medical, dental, pharmacy or physician assistant degree at an accredited New Jersey school.

Each school must submit three nominations for consideration. The students must be in their final year of school. If the school has not been established long enough to have students in their final year, three students from the class closest to graduation may be nominated.

Students must be nominated by a full-time faculty member at the New Jersey school they are currently attending. A faculty member can only recommend one applicant per year.

Prior recipients are not eligible to receive scholarships in subsequent years. Previously nominated students who were not selected in a prior year may be renominated with an updated application package.

Submission of Nominations

Nomination materials should be submitted through the online application system found at ejifoundation.org/eji-2024-scholarship-application/.

Faculty recommendation letters can either be uploaded by the student as part of the electronic application or can be emailed directly from the faculty member to jdohanic@FoundationforHealthAdvancement.org.

Faculty recommendation letters should be addressed to the Chairman of the Foundation at the following address:

Paul J. Hirsch, MD
EJI Excellence in Medicine
Foundation for Health Advancement
155 Village Blvd., Suite 130
Princeton, NJ 08540

Nominations will be accepted through November 17, 2023.

Incomplete nomination submissions, or submissions after the deadline, may be disqualified.

Selection Criteria

The Scholarship Committee is comprised of an independent group of school administrators, physicians and healthcare leaders who review each scholarship application thoroughly. The Scholarship Committee will select students and make a recommendation to the EJI Excellence in Medicine Advisory Board. The number of students selected is at the discretion of the Scholarship Committee. The EJI Advisory Board will have the final approval on the slate of students.

Selected students and their nominators will be notified of the selection results by early January 2024.

For more information on the history of the EJI Excellence in Medicine Awards[®] and the Excellence in Medicine Scholarship Fund, log on to EJIFoundation.org or contact Julie Dohanac at 908-731-6606 or jdohanac@FoundationforHealthAdvancement.org.

Requirements of Selected Scholarship Recipients

The scholarship recipients will be recognized at our awards dinner on May 1, 2024. Further details on the format of the 2024 event will be forthcoming. The selected students must agree to participate in the event.

The recipients may also be asked to participate in a Zoom interview, and attend a pre-event meeting or photo session.

Payment of Scholarship Funds

The scholarship funds will be distributed directly to the schools in May 2024, following the awards event. The funds will not be distributed directly to the students. Prior arrangements will need to be made by the school in instances where the scholarship students will be graduating before the scholarship funds are distributed from the Foundation.
